Conclusions

EUROPE

Different results have been obtained according to the solutions applied to different countries, for example:

1. In the U.K. it was decided to directly privatize rail and the results are evident.
2. In Germany they have maintained Infrastructure and Transport under the same holding but working independently. DB has also been transformed into a private rights company in view of entering the stock market.
3. In France they have separated Infrastructure and Transport but have maintained the dominant transport monopoly of SNCF.
4. In Spain, Infrastructure and Traction have been separated but maintaining the Transport monopoly. Like France, the results are there.

SPAIN

From the beginning of the liberalization there have been three phases:

1. Initial interest shown by the companies wanting to develop their activity in this sector, mostly construction companies.
2. Confrontation with the reality of the market (small, requiring high investment, long breakeven period, maritime competition, road competition and above all, Renfe).
3. Current situation: Main issue: Renfe. Necessity of a regulating competition framework with equal rules for all. Eliminating Renfe's subsidy or privatizing Renfe's companies with the objective of promoting free competition.
